Description :

PDF-f8d41 | When 15 families were forced from their homes in the 1960s, a void was left in their lives and in the picturesque Columbia River Valley 12 miles south of Revelstoke, B.C. BC Hydro, a British Columbia government entity, forced residents to sell their homes in the 1960s. It constructed a 150-mile-long water reservoir forming a water reservoir to supply Grand Coulee Dam in Washington State, USA. It ... 12 Mile Remembered Our Lives Before They Burned Our Homesteads: Flooded and Burned Dreams of a Small Community in British Columbia
